

ABSTRACT

A family of minimally cross-hybridizing nucleotide sequences and their use in the detection of nucleic acid sequences is described.

Specifically described is the use of two distinct families of 210 and 1168 24mers in the detection of nucleic acid sequences.